About Woldumar

Woldumar Nature Center is located on the west side of Lansing. It is the area's only self-funded, 501(c)3 non-profit nature center. It offers 5 miles of natural trails on 178 acres and year-round community and educational programs. Over 40,000 children and adults participate in the center's activities that include summer day camps, year-round scouting programs, field trips and science curriculums for classrooms, outings for all ages, and facility space for groups or events. Donations help the center achieve its mission to educate people about the natural environment. Visit www.woldumar.org for more information.
